SCIENCE IN THE SQUARE

THURSDAY-SATURDAY, JUNE 1-3 | TIMES SQUARE

For three days, World Science Festival brings science to the crossroads of the world. Through a series of interactive activities including Holoscenes, a large-scale performance-installation that examines humankind's relationship to water, attendees receive a hands-on opportunity to explore our impact on our ever-changing planet.

Holoscenes, created by Lars Jan / Early Morning Opera and originally produced by MAPP International Productions, is presented with Times Square Arts.

SATURDAY NIGHT LIGHTS: STARGAZING

SATURDAY, JUNE 3, 7:00 PM-11:00 PM | BROOKLYN BRIDGE PARK, PIER 1

Step up to a world-class telescope (or bring your own) for an up-close look at the moon, Jupiter, and beyond. Then, take part in UP! Umbrella Project, a participatory experience created by Pilobolus in collaboration with MIT Distributed Robotics. Armed with an LED-lighted umbrella, create your own exploding stars and constellations, along with physicists and astronomers in a larger-than-life celebration of our universe.

THE GREAT FISH COUNT

SATURDAY, JUNE 3 | 17 LOCATIONS IN NY AND NJ

New York's waterways are wilder than you think. Strap on a pair of waders, cast a net, and see what types of marine life you can find—from Lemon Creek in Staten Island to the shores of Fort Washington Park. Join top ecologists and biologists to discover the underwater world in your backyard.

Supported by the Bezos Family Foundation.

ULTIMATE SCIENCE SUNDAY

SUNDAY, JUNE 4, 10:00 AM-6:00 PM | NYU KIMMEL CENTER

Ride a hovercraft, control an underwater rover, and face off with virtual reality dinosaurs! Join the World Science Festival for an action-packed day of robots, catapults, wind tunnels, telescopes, and so much more. Explore floors of interactive exhibits, demonstrations, and games during this indoor, immersive day of science that you won't want to miss.
